HISTORY

BERKELEY COUNTY is the second oldest county in West Virginia. It was created in 1771 from the northern third of Frederick County (Virginia), and was named for Norbourn Berkeley (Baron de Botetourt), who was the Colonial Governor of Virginia from 1768 to 1770.

At Bunker Hill, in this county in 1726, Morgan Morgan founded the first permanent settlement of record in Western Virginia. In commemoration of this event, the State of West Virginia has erected a monument in the Bunker Hill roadside park and has placed a marker at the grave of Morgan, which is in a cemetery near the park.

The first Episcopal Church (Christ Church), in what is now West Virginia, was erected at Bunker Hill by Morgan Morgan in 1740. Three years later (about 1743), the first Baptist Church (Mill Creek Church) was organized at Gerrardstown.

MARTINSBURG is called the “Northern Gateway of the Shenandoah Valley and the Heart of the Eastern Panhandle.” Originally called “Martin’s Town”, the city began in the 1750’s as a few houses near what is now the intersection of Stephen and Water Streets. It was named after Col. Thomas Bryan Martin, nephew of Thomas Lord Fairfax, who held the grant of land embracing the entire area. Martinsburg was officially chartered by the General Assembly of Virginia in October, 1778, after being made the county seat of the newly formed Berkeley County in 1772.

Originally a busy mill town, Martinsburg also housed an armory owned by General Adam Stephen which produced guns for the American Revolution. Our National Guard unit dates back to 1735, when it was formed by Morgan Morgan. The men of this unit were among George Washington’s troops near Boston at the very beginning of the War of Independence.

The arrival of the B&O Railroad in 1842 gave the town a major economic boost which set off a spree of building that lasted to the Civil War. Many downtown buildings reflect that era of architecture. Also, left to us from the high days of the railroad is the fascinating Roundhouse.

HISTORY, Continued:

After the Civil War, Martinsburg underwent its greatest change as America's industrial age began. Although the region has not been without its growing pains, it has prospered and continues to be a progressive and growing community. The City of Martinsburg is experiencing economic growth due to its proximity to Washington, DC and Baltimore, MD metropolitan areas, yet offers the serenity of small town living.

HEDGESVILLE settlement grew out of a trading village in a gap of the North Mountain used by settlers moving west and was located at the site of a natural limestone spring which had been an Indian meeting place before the white man came into the region. It is located in Skinners Gap in North Mountain and is seven miles north of Martinsburg. The town was laid out in 1832 along the old Warm Springs Road (now West Virginia Route 9) and was named for the prominent local Hedges family. In 1836, the Virginia General Assembly passed an act establishing the town of Hedgesville. It was originally platted in 1830 from land owned by Josiah Hedges and Mary Claycomb. These plots came from the Lord Fairfax and Westenhaver grants. As a political entity, Hedgesville is older than the State of West Virginia.

Hedgesville was much crossed by invading armies of both the North and South during the Civil War. It was only one mile east of the village where the Battle of North Mountain was fought; this battle resulted in the capture of 1,500 Union soldiers who were then marched south to prisoner of war camps.

From the 1880s through the 1920s, Hedgesville was a summer resort town with a large Victorian hotel, Mt. Clifton, and a smaller hotel, Summit House. Both hotels provided summer lodging for guests from Washington, D. C. and Baltimore, MD. The town is listed on the National Register of Historic Places by the U. S. Department of the Interior as the Hedgesville Historic District.
